

DOYLE

Doyle at Home sale

December 7, 2021

ADDENDUM

CORRECTIONS

- Lot 95 Please note the description of this work was updated on December 2nd. It has been suggested that the sculpture is a collaborative work by Guglielmo Pugi's sons, Gino and Fiorenzo Pugi, who continued their father's workshop in Florence after his death.
- Lot 193 Please note the additional provenance information for this lot: "The Collection of James W. Carter, Stair & Company, New York. Purchased from the above, East Side House Winter Antiques Show, January 24, 1977."
- Lot 194 Please note the additional provenance information for this lot: "Stair & Company, New York. Purchased from the above, January 27, 1979."
- Lot 195 Please note the additional provenance information for this lot: "Parke-Bernet Galleries, New York, February 20, 1971, lot 43."
- Lot 197 Please note the additional provenance information for this lot: "William Doyle Galleries, New York, June 29, 1994, lot 478."
- Lot 206 Please note the description for this lot was revised on Sunday, December 5, to indicate that the pair of panels are made of painted plaster and not painted ceramic as previously indicated.
- Lot 309 Please note that this lot includes two leaves and not one as previously stated.
- Lot 327 Please note the description for this lot was updated on Saturday, December 4, to indicate that this is an assembled service. In addition, the Condition Report for this lot was also updated on Saturday, December 4, to indicate that there are sixteen dinner plates not seventeen dinner plates and that there are three teacups not two teacups as originally indicated. It was again updated on Monday, December 6, to indicate that one of the dinner plates is in a similar but different pattern.
- Lot 384 Please note the description for this lot was updated on Monday afternoon, December 6, 2021. The change is that this lot is no longer being dated.

WITHDRAWALS

30, 181, 418

RESCHEDULED

17, 370